Donald Trump's surprise victory over the Republican and Democratic political establishments in 2016 was the result of many factors, including structural trends in economic dislocations and electoral politics, along with deeply-rooted ideological and cultural currents. This powerpoint presentation will explore the degree to which Trump's electoral and governmental projects are a consolidation of right-wing populist politics and its appeals to white nationalism, xenophobia, and racial resentment.

Francis Shor is a Professor Emeritus of History at Wayne State University. He is the author of three books, the latest being "Dying Empire: U.S. Imperialism and Global Resistance (Routledge 2010). Other publications, covering a broad range of topics in 20th century U.S. and global history, have appeared in scholarly journals and popular online journals. In addition to his academic work, he has been a long-time peace and justice activist. In that regard he is currently the Director of the Public Education and Community Engagement (P.E.A.C.E.) project, an affiliate of Peace Action of Michigan and an Advisory Board member of the Michigan Coalition for Human Rights.

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

For more info about the Humanities Center, call (313) 577-5471 or visit www.research2.wayne.edu/hum